

"The Maze"

V

There's a cold wind blowing in the desert tonight.
Shadows are haunting the houses of light.
Silence has stolen the song from our lips
and extinguished the fire in our fingertips.

V

Did I miss the signal when the lines came down?
Were you watching the stars falling from my crown?
Now the house is shaking but the walls won't fall.
A beast approaches though a mirrored hall.

CH

In a maze of thorns and secrets-
lies cut like razor blades,
we are running from deception
as the world around us fades.
Heaven can't shine bright enough
to guide us through this haze.
We're searching for our souls-
moving blindly through this maze.

V

The seats are empty in the temple of God.
There's a wolf in the chapel- the devil's façade.
We're locked in a battle being waged by timepawns on a board fighting faceless mimes.

BR

We're locked inside a maze.
Each turn reveals more walls.
I feel your hopeless gaze.
God, hear our broken call.

(Repeat Chorus)